ANNE ARUNDEL COUNTY
PUBLIC LIBRARY

A Note from Steuart Pittman, Anne Arundel County Executive

Libraries Transform and Enrich

I believe in the power of our libraries to transform lives and enrich our communities. Whether you're seeking a quiet space to dive into a good book, or a database to explore new opportunities, you'll find it in the walls of a library.

But our libraries are more than just a repository of books and information, they are essential pillars of our communities. They help bridge the digital divide by connecting eligible residents to free Chromebooks. They help keep our communities safe by providing gun locks at no cost and they provide opportunities for people of all ages, backgrounds and abilities to learn, grow and thrive.

In Anne Arundel County, we recognize the growing role that our libraries play in our communities – even as we face increasing costs for labor, goods and services. Our responsible budgeting practices and willingness to invest in the people and institutions that support our quality of life helped us achieve triple-A bond ratings from all three credit ratings agencies for the first time in our history – and helped us maintain those ratings this year.

This year's budget reflects our continued commitment to our libraries by funding a market-rate salary adjustment for library staff, supporting the space and staff expansion of Discoveries: The Library at the Mall and fully funding the new Glen Burnie Library capital project.

I hope you will take advantage of the many opportunities our libraries offer and explore the endless possibilities, one page at a time.

Scan to view how this year's budget invests in the future of Anne Arundel County.

DO WE STILL LOVE HOUSEPLANTS?

When the world shut down for COVID, many people got interested in houseplants. The Crofton Library embraced this trend and took it to a higher level!

The library offers high ceilings and lots of windows and has always had a few plants scattered around the building, but they were often ignored or overlooked. As the library prepared to reopen in June 2020, they procured "sneeze guards," for added protection but the desk service design left large gaps in between the panels. To discourage customers from sticking their heads through the gaps, staff put a couple of the larger plants in the space. They were practical and added a nice touch.

And so, they stayed, and then winter came, and they stayed. People commented on them, and they gave away a couple of spider plant babies, and life went on. The plants stayed and the staff made sure they were watered and nurtured.

Then came October 2021, when staff member Catherine Jellison had several large tropical plants on her deck at home that needed to come inside, but she had no room. It seemed a shame to throw them away, so she asked the then branch manager if she could take them to the library for the winter, to live in one of the large windows. The manager gave the okay and thus began the greening of the branch.

The plants loved it at the library (all that light!), and the customers loved the plants. In early 2022, the staff put up a display of forsythia branches at the customer service desk along with a sign explaining how to force blooms indoors. People really liked that too and so they added more, similar educational displays throughout the year.

Gradually, more and more plants from staff members made their way to the library. They tried to bring the most interesting, strange-looking ones that they had, to show people that there is more to houseplant life than spider plants and peace lilies.

As the plant collection grew, the staff wanted to make it an educational experience for the customers, so they created and attached attractive signage to each plant giving the botanical name, common name and a QR code leading to care information. The most popular plants are the pencil cactus, the mistletoe cactus, the curly locks cactus and the ponytail palms. They also have a 14-foot ficus that gets a lot of attention! At just over 100 in total, the number of plants looks great and the branch is exploring the concept of plants that customers could "check out," like a plant library of sorts.

In July 2023, the library started a monthly Houseplant Club, which has been very popular and even offers a plant/cuttings/pots/etc. swap at the end of each meeting.

Over the past year, the library staff have also worked with Farm Unity to create a vegetable garden on library property for the community. Farm Unity provided the volunteers, the Library Foundation also provided some financial support and the garden produced over 600 pounds of vegetables that were distributed to the community free of charge. Farm Unity is now working to create a pollinator garden next to the vegetable garden. There is also now a mobile greenhouse in the library with some seedlings that will be transplanted into the garden, so the community can see the process from seed to produce!

The library has come a long way from dying houseplants in the lobby to a blossoming atmosphere of growth, learning and cooperation within the branch and community.

Thanks to funding from the county's Local Development Council, a library on wheels is on the road visiting underserved communities and serving customers lacking transportation to the nearby Severn Library. The vehicle called Twig (think smaller than a branch) is bringing programs, resources and a collection of books to residents. The vehicle's bold exterior design is the brainchild of local artist Comacell Brown. You can find Twig's schedule at aacpl.net/services/Severn.

The Twig outreach vehicle aims to transform communities and promote awareness of the invaluable resources offered by the library system. By reaching out to underserved residents and delivering a wealth of books, digital resources and services directly to their doorsteps, Twig is actively breaking down barriers and bridging the gap between people and knowledge. Our mission is to empower individuals with the necessary tools to enhance their personal growth, education and overall well-being.

The outreach vehicle at AACPL has already visited Anne Arundel County Public School classrooms, family support centers, public housing and mobile home neighborhoods, farmers' markets, child development centers, parks, food pantry sites, camps, children clubs, neighborhood festivals, gardening centers, coffee shops and more. Since its launch, Severn Library staff have made 116 outreach visits and served 3,114 customers.

Twig outreach is also committed to providing regular library services to the community through recurring weekly visits to various locations. Our weekly stops include The Boys and Girls Clubs in both Meade Village and the Severn Center and Sarah's House, where we aim to engage families and foster a love for reading. Also, we serve local commuters through weekly visits to the bus stop at Arundel Mills Mall, ensuring that the library is available to those on the go and possibly lacking transportation to the library. Our outreach efforts extend to seniors as well, with dedicated weekly visits to the senior center situated at the Severn Center. At every Twig outreach stop, individuals can not only access and return books but also sign up for library cards and utilize our Chromebooks.

A customer from the bus stop recently said, "This library actually found ME, as I was waiting at the bus stop located at the Arundel Mills Mall... Something told me to stop by your guy's book truck, which was parked that day right at the bus stop. The woman and man who helped me were very kind and they even had free books they gave away, and I got one. This was perfect timing for me as I had told God that I had just been wanting to start reading again... I am so excited for this new chapter at a new library."

Sweet Success

Thank you to our friends at Always Ice Cream for their dedication to the library with the Dragons Love Toffee campaign. With your support, we scooped up $2,184 to ensure lifelong literacy and learning. We can't wait for 2025!

Staff at all libraries were treated to Dragons Love Toffee ice cream cakes, which were hand-delivered by foundation staff and board members.

Library Giving Week

Many thanks to the 350 community donors who have ensured youth and adult literacy will continue to thrive (we can't do it without you!) and that Summer @ Your Library and other programs will be offered in the coming year. Together, we raised over $47,000. Every dollar counts towards making your library transform lives!

Your Donations in Action

Fine-Motor Skill Building for Preschoolers

Kindergarten readiness programs are in full force at our branches. More than 100 people had fun squishing and creating with play dough at the Edgewater Library recently. They didn't have time to think about the fine motor skills they were honing; they were just having fun! Over six tables offered different stations where eager littles could build and create. All our preschool friends had a great time thanks to the staff who created four batches of homemade play dough. Community donors funded the ingredients and other supplies.

Library Staff Out in the Community

Broadneck Library staff recently participated in Broadneck High School's first STEAM Fair. Over 340 students and adults learned about building manipulatives to develop foundational math and science skills. Staff brought donor-funded, hands-on educational construction building toys so everyone could unleash creativity and build critical thinking skills. Donors like you make outreach a successful reality for our community.
